No Royal visit for capital city

The two royal newlyweds won't be coming to Alberta's capital city during their summer tour of Canada. According to details provided yesterday, the couple plan to hit the Stampede city July 6-8 instead, in their only stop in the western provinces.

Police push for pay-then-pump

- Alberta Association of Police Chiefs hope for new law by 2012
- Planning trip to meet new provincial government in fall

Police chiefs in the province want to mandate advance payment at the pumps in hopes of keeping gas-and-dash crimes from draining resources and threatening public safety.

The Alberta Association of Chiefs of Police have unanimously passed a resolution asking for legislation making prepayment at gas stations mandatory across the province.

"One of our officers in one of our districts made the observation that drive-offs at gas stations were increasing," said Calgary Police Chief Rick Hanson and AACP president. "It is a crime that is predictable and therefore preventable."

Lisa Sobchysyn, spokesperson for the Edmonton Police Service, said members here support the push to combat gas theft.

"We do support that effort, which would free up and make better use of our officers' time," said Sobchysyn.

The cost to Calgary police resources for gassing up without paying was $171,271 and 66 weeks in officer time last year, said Sobchysyn, adding EPS rates are similar.

Lokinder Kaushik, Edmonton's City Centre Esso owner, calls gas theft a "daily" concern.

"The last two or three times, it's been girls," he said of drivers filling their tanks without paying, which he dubbed "scary and dangerous."

Kaushik lost about $7,000 last year alone from gas theft and said he would support a law for pre-paid fuel.

"It's been a problem forever," said Kaushik. "And the more gas (prices) go up, the worse the problem gets."

Gas-theft dangers

- Last year in Calgary, police members attended 2,033 gas-and-dash calls.
- B.C. became the first province to mandate pre-paid gas in 2008, after a 24-year-old employee was hit, dragged 7.5 kilometres and killed by a 16-year-old driver trying to avoid paying for $12.30 in gas.
- Last week, at a Mississauga, Ont., service station, 62-year-old Hashem Atifeh Rad died after being struck while trying to prevent a driver from leaving without paying for gas.

SlutWalk may change course

They will still march to protest sexual violence and victim-blaming; it's just not yet certain where they will do so.

Organizers of Edmonton's SlutWalk, slated for Saturday, will make an announcement today or tomorrow regarding their route.

"We're still considering all the options," said Kasia Gawlak, one of four organizers.

The group met with city staff last week after finding out they need to pay $2,000 in road-closure and policing fees for a route from the legislature down Jasper Avenue to city hall.

They say they weren't aware of the fee until a week before the event.

"We are aware now, as far as submitting an application form to the city, there are (costs)," said Gawlak. "But we still maintain this is (a) protest march, not a parade."

Ellen Finn, with the city's civic-events department, said all events must pay for any city services, and that such things are needed for SlutWalk because of the "popularity and interest of the event."

Options the city said may be cheaper include staying at the legislature, river valley trails or a park, or approaching city hall on 102 Avenue.

Benefits of legal-injection site on conference's agenda

► 11th annual Alberta Harm Reduction Conference runs tomorrow through Thursday

HEATHER MCINTYRE

Whether or not Edmonton will become home to a safe-injection site is a question Marliiss Taylor would like to be able to answer.

"It's the most frequently asked question and has been for the last five, six years," said the program manager of Streetworks, a local needle-exchange program offered through Boyle Street Community Services.

The benefits of such a site will be among the many topics discussed this week at the annual Alberta Harm Reduction Conference at the Coast Edmonton Plaza Hotel, which Taylor helped organize.

Dr. Andre Corriveau, Alberta's chief medical officer of health, will speak tomorrow morning to kick off the conference.

risdiction, and whether closing the site violates the rights of drug addicts living in one of Canada's poorest neighbourhoods, has yet to be made.

Taylor said the decision will have ripple effects across the country, regardless of what it is.

"But if the Supreme Court says (safe-injection sites) are a healthy intervention and should happen, I think our organization would probably take it on in Edmonton," she said.

"We have way too many people with addictions using drugs in back alleys or in bathrooms."

Doctor blames bad books for billing dead patients

A Calgary doctor suspended for billing irregularities that included submitting claims for treating dead people says he's a bad book-keeper.

Dr. John van Olm says he was treating many nursing home residents and by the time he submitted claims for his services, some of them had died. The physician was suspended for 18 months by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, but can resume practising in August if he takes remedial steps such as learning how to properly keep his books. THE CANADIAN PRESS

185 Van Olm is also found to have submitted exaggerated bills claiming to have seen 185 patients a day, and was reprimanded for getting loans from a couple of patients.

Guards march for safety

Guards tired of working conditions in the overcrowded Edmonton Remand Centre will make their voices heard today.

Canada tour for newlyweds

► Trip will mark the first visit to Canada for the Duchess of Cambridge

Two of the country's biggest summer shindigs will bookend Prince William and Kate's visit to Canada — a trip the government is expecting to be an international media circus.

The newlyweds will begin their first official overseas tour in Ottawa, where they will attend Canada Day celebrations, and end it with the Calgary Stampede, the world-famous annual hoedown in Alberta. There will also be stops in Quebec City, Montreal, Yellowknife, Charlottetown, and Summerside, P.E.I. (Kate is reportedly a big fan of Anne of Green Gables).

"This is part of what nation building is all about — hosting these kind of events," Heritage Minister James Moore said yesterday. "Hosting the duke and duchess is an honour for

First homegrown superbug puzzles

► NDM-1, a cause of urinary-tract infection, did not make patient sick ► Bacteria is drug-resistant

Canadian researchers have identified what appears to be the first domestically acquired case of an NDM-1 superbug.

An 86-year-old Ontario man was found to be carrying bacteria resistant to most antibiotics because of NDM-1, or New Delhi metallo-1, an enzyme that alters the DNA of various types of bacteria. NDM-1 is endemic in India and Pakistan and has spread worldwide due to global travel.

But the patient, who was admitted to hospital and then a rehabilitation centre after suffering a stroke last October, had not travelled outside southwestern Ontario for the last decade.

► NDM-1 has spread due to global travel.

None of the man's family members or other close contacts were carrying the superbug, nor had any been to parts of the world where NDM-1 is widespread.

"It's really unfortunately a mystery in terms of his source, and it certainly suggests that he acquired it here in the southwestern Ontario region," said Dr. Susan Poutanen, an infectious disease physician at Mount Sinai Hospital in Toronto.

She said the case is not cause for public alarm but is meant to alert hospitals and labs not to dismiss NDM-1 as a cause of drug-resistant bacteria in patients merely because they have not travelled outside Canada. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Germany to close all nuke plants by 2022

► Germany's seven oldest reactors, all built before 1980, shut down after problems at Fukushima ► Plants provided 40 per cent of nuclear power

Germany's governing coalition said yesterday it will shut down all the country's nuclear power plants by 2022. The decision, prompted by Japan's nuclear disaster, will make Germany the first major industrialized nation to go nuclear-free in years.

It also completes a remarkable about-face for Chancellor Angela Merkel's government, which last year had pushed through a plan to extend the life span of the country's 17 reactors — with the last scheduled to go offline in 2036.

But Merkel now says industrialized Japan's helplessness in the face of the Fukushima disaster made her rethink the technology.

While Germany was set to abandon nuclear energy eventually, the decision — which requires parliamentary approval — speeds up that process.

Germany's seven oldest reactors, taken off the grid pending safety inspections following the March catastrophe at Japan's Fukushima Dai-ichi plant, will remain offline permanently, Environment Minister Norbert Roettgen said.

The country's energy supply chain "needs a new architecture," necessitating efforts in renewable energies and overhauling the electricity grid, Merkel said.

The determination of Europe's largest economy to replace its nuclear power with renewable energy sources makes it stand out among the world's major industrialized nations. Among other Group of Eight nations, only Italy has abandoned nuclear power, voted down in a referendum after the 1986 Chernobyl disaster, closing three operating reactors.

No glory for Canuck economy

Canada's economy expanded an impressive 3.9 per cent in the first three months of this year, but there was little cheering in markets with the performance.

Not only was the number slightly below the four per cent consensus expectation, but the elements of growth signalled a sharp brake in the economy ahead.

The most encouraging news in the much-awaited Statistics Canada report yesterday is that the last month of the quarter — March — saw a gross domestic pickup of 0.3 per cent, slightly above consensus.

"It's not just the headline that matters. It's the composition of (first-quarter) growth that is disconcerting," said Derek Holt, vice-president of economics with Scotiabank.

The composition included a heavy dose of production placed in storage, awaiting future sales, with inventory buildup accounting for three-quarters of the growth.

Meanwhile, consumers were in hibernation, contributing only 0.1 percentage points to growth, and net trade was a drag, with the solid 1.6 per cent rise in exports from the previous quarter swamped by a 2.2 per cent gain in imports. The bright spots were in business investment, manufacturing and housing.

GIRLS' GUIDE TO SURVIVING NHL PLAYOFFS

SHE SAYS ...

JESSICA NAPIER
METRO

Say RIP to your relationship for the rest of the hockey season, ladies — your man is about to abandon you in favour of a bunch of bearded dudes on ice.

Yes, the seemingly impossible has happened; a Canadian team has made it to the Stanley Cup final. Now, it may not be "your" team, but the boys in blue and green are Canuck nonetheless, and that means that every Molson-blooded male will be taking up permanent residence on his bar stool/couch cushion of choice for the next two weeks.

A Canadian team hasn't taken home the cup since 1993, so, apparently, this is a pretty big deal. And with many hockey-loving lads still riding high off the 2010 Olympic gold medal win, it seems that people are excited about Vancouver's chances.

Personally, I feel pretty "meh" about hockey, but as someone who looks like Bambi out on the ice, I can appreciate the skill of the sport. Plus, there's fighting and beer; how is a girl going to compete with all the bruising and boozing the NHL has to offer?

"Starting tomorrow, be prepared for an absentee other half or, even worse, a living room full of rowdy puck enthusiasts with very little regard for the noise level or the furniture."

Starting tomorrow, be prepared for an absentee other half or, even worse, a living room full of rowdy puck enthusiasts with very little regard for the noise level or the furniture. Your presence will be entirely forgotten unless you're in charge of picking up the pizza.

Date nights will be replaced with double overtime. You will be subjected to endless recaps, stats and highlight reels. The sights and sounds of Don Cherry's colourful blazers and grating commentary will permeate your nightmares.

And, of course, don't expect to score unless his team does. Your sex life is about to become heavily dependent on Roberto Luongo's goaltending. If the Canucks do lose, the phrase "It's just a game" will only worsen your chances with your moody bedfellow.

So what's the best strategy when dealing with hockey-night neglect?

Stay away. Plan field trips with fellow hockey widows and make peace with the fact that you might not have a meaningful conversation with your mate until the post-season ends.

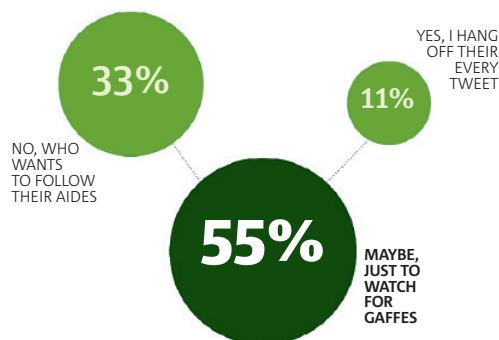

If you do find yourself staying in on game night, do your best to remember this simple commandment: Don't change the channel under any circumstances. It doesn't matter if it's The Bachelorette's "most dramatic rose ceremony ever" — if you even so much as glance at the remote during a commercial break you will be banished from your own home until after Game 7.

Worth mentioning

TOKYO. A new poll yesterday showed that more than 80 per cent of Japanese voters do not trust government information about the country's nuclear crisis.

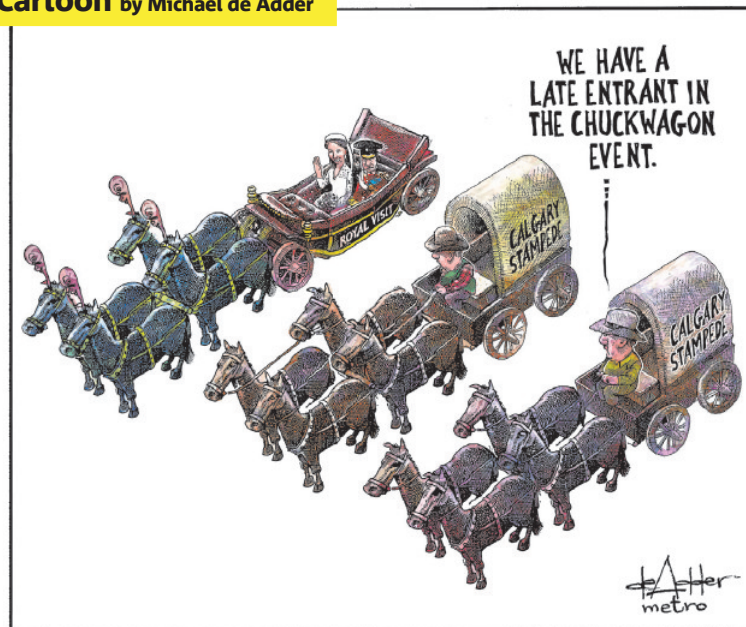

The poll conducted by Fuji Television Network also found that nearly 85 per cent of respondents said the utility that operates the stricken Fukushima Dai-ichi nuclear plant is dealing with the crisis poorly. A March 11 earthquake and tsunami damaged crucial cooling systems at the plant, causing the worst nuclear crisis since Chernobyl. The twin disasters left more than 24,000 people dead or missing in northeastern Japan.

Eighty-one per cent of respondents to the survey said they did not trust government information about the crisis, Fuji TV said. Seventy-eight per cent said Prime Minister Naoto Kan lacked leadership in handling the disasters.

Kan is facing calls for his resignation even within his own ruling party. Opposition parties are expected to submit a no-confidence motion against him as early as Thursday.

Railway officials recently discovered snakes on a train in Vietnam — highly venomous king cobras in bags under a seat.

Railroad official Pham Quynh said passengers were terrified when four cloth bags containing the writhing cobras were spotted Friday. The snakes were alive but had their mouths stitched shut.

Quynh said the exact number of snakes was unclear, but the bags weighed 45 kilograms.

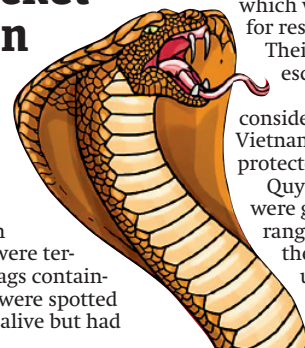

Security staff removed the cobras, which were likely destined for restaurants in Hanoi.

Their owner apparently escaped in the chaos.

Snake meat is considered a delicacy in Vietnam, but cobras are protected by law.

Quynh said the cobras were given to forest rangers who released them into the wild Saturday after no one claimed them.

Morrison gets to sing with his idol

Glee star Matthew Morrison sings Somewhere Over the Rainbow with Gwyneth Paltrow on his self-titled debut album, but the dream he dared to dream, that really did come true, is singing with the legendary Elton John. The two recorded an epic medley of John's Mona Lisas and Mad Hatters and Rocket Man.

"I wanted to pay homage to one of my favourite songwriters," says Morrison, who had the good fortune to be in the studio with John for the tracking. "It was pretty surreal. I don't know how to describe it. I didn't really take in the moment until maybe a couple of days afterwards, where I was like, 'Did that actually happen?' It felt like a dream."

"I listen to that song now and his voice is so awesome, and then his voice fades out and then mine comes in and it's like, 'Woah!'"

Boy band

► LMNT. Matthew Morrison reveals he was once in a boy band called LMNT, complete with matching outfits, but quit before ever recording with them. "You know as a performer when you're embarrassed to be onstage doing the wrong thing," he explains. "It felt so contrived. It was back in 1999 or something where you couldn't throw a stick and not hit someone in a boy band (laughs)."

Sting also joins him on Let Your Soul Be Your Pilot but the rest of the songs are solely Morrison. Some of the songs the 32-year-old co-wrote, including the album's lead single, Summer Rain.

"I thought that the first single had to start in a really kind of light poppy fun place," he says.

album, including bypassing club shows for theatres and an opening slot on the New Kids On The Block/Backstreet Boys tour. "I have a whole band, an 11-piece band, a horn section," he says of the costly configuration. "I want to do it right and luckily enough from being on Glee, I think I have more of a support system behind me."

Bardem brings best

Biutiful

Genre: Drama

Director: Alejandro González Iñárritu

Stars: Javier Bardem, Maricel Álvarez, Hanaa Bouchaib

Javier Bardem talks to ghosts in Biutiful, a starkly emotive film by Alejandro González Iñárritu where the physical and metaphysical realms seem equally desperate.

The ability of Bardem's grifter character Uxbal to commune with the dead is actually the most calming and least gloomy aspect of a film awash in misfortune and tragedy.

Ironically titled and deliberately misspelled, Biutiful grimly treads the shadows of illegal immigration, poverty, police corruption, marital and parental dysfunction and mental and physical ills in the shabbier section of Barcelona, where Uxbal and his family live.

Uxbal is like a walking ghost himself, having just received a drastic cancer diagnosis. His long hair streaked with grey, his handsome features drawn by fatigue and poor health, he's the antithesis of the sexy charmer Bardem played in last summer's Eat Pray Love. But he's paradoxically far more attractive as a person and interesting as a character.

Even at a running time of 148 minutes, Biutiful at times seems like a slightly truncated version of what Iñárritu might have originally planned. Yet the loose ends don't matter when you have a performance as strong as Bardem's.

Extras include a making-of featurette.

Drive Angry

Genre: Sci-Fi, Thriller

Director: Patrick Lussier

Stars: Nicholas Cage

🌐🌐½

Drive Angry is a movie that should STFU — and by that I mean, “Stop Talking Fellows, Understand?”

It's a supernatural road thriller starring Nicolas Cage, sizzling celluloid of a type normally relegated to drive-ins, grindhouses and other down-market retreats where the popcorn is served with buckets o' blood.

Such films are not, God forbid, supposed to be showcases of snappy dialogue, especially when the dialogue snaps like a worn rubber band. When in doubt, say nothing and just cock your gun.

Drive Angry's director Patrick Lussier (Dracula 2000) can't seem to resist including every one of the macho mutterings he and co-writer Todd Farmer scribbled into their notebooks.

Thus a movie that could have left skid marks on our psyche — in 3-D no less — instead drives us to distraction with verbose line readings that kill momentum worse than a police flashlight shining through a parked windshield.

Each and every tortured soul in this Satan Get Your Gun farce feels compelled to explain to every other tortured soul what terrible thing is about to happen.

The failure of people to STFU is compounded by Cage phoning in yet another performance, as he continues to make us forget he ever won an Oscar.

The only thing that keeps Drive Angry from being completely derivative road stew is William Fichtner's hilariously deadpan portrayal of The Accountant, Satan's right-hand man, the guy who collects stray infidels. He's the funniest satanic figure since Mr. Skin in Bruce McDonald's Highway 61, and that was 20 years ago.

Extras include a commentary by Lussier and Farmer, deleted scenes and making-of featurettes. ● PETER HOWELL

Stop smiling gents

► New study out of Vancouver finds that happy-looking men appear less attractive to women

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Smiling is attractive in women, but in guys — not so much.

An intriguing new study done by psychologists in Vancouver has found that when it comes to attracting women, happy-looking men may finish last.

"There are major differences in the ways emotions affect attractiveness in the two genders," lead author Jessica Tracy told Metro. "When women smile and show happiness, men find that the most attractive. When men smile and show happiness, women find that the least attractive."

Tracy, who is a professor of psychology at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, along with graduate student Alec Beall, undertook

"There are major differences in the ways emotions affect attractiveness in the two genders"

► Want to meet girls? Try the brooding approach, a new study suggests.

two studies which included a total of 1,041 people. Subjects were shown hundreds of photographs of the opposite sex displaying either happiness (big smile), pride (puffed-out chest), shame (head down) or neutrality (no expression). The photo viewers were asked, "How attractive do you find this person?"

Results indicated women were most attractive showing happiness and least attractive showing pride. Men were most attractive when showing pride and least sexy showing happiness. Surprisingly, among young women looking at photographs, even men showing shame were more attractive than men showing happiness.

What's wrong with smiling men? It could be that since men are assumed to be sexually receptive, when they smile, they seem needy or desperate. Women prefer the bad-boy look.

"Men who show pride are tough, strong and powerful and women find that attractive," says Tracy.

Since the study involved photos, it only reflects people's first impressions.

"In dating there are lots of other things at play," says Tracy. "It may be relevant only in situations where you only show a photo, such as online dating."

Let them eat carbs

► Carbohydrates are no longer the enemy ► A diet high in resistant starch is the latest way to narrow that waistline ► Make sure to pass the breadbasket please; it's OK, I'm on a diet

ROMINA MCGUINNESS
LIFE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

Carb. This nasty four letter word has for too long been associated with gluttony and weight gain. It's both the ultimate comfort food and the reason why we shudder at the thought of chewing on a bread roll. Anyone that has sacrificed hearty bowls of pasta for celery sticks, listen up. The Carb Lovers Diet, written by nutritionist Frances Largerman-Roth and Health magazine editor Ellen Kunes, maintains that the secret to long-term weight loss is a diet rich in non-refined carbohydrates.

"For 20 years diet experts and the media have spread the word that carbohydrates are bad for our health, raise blood sugar levels and make us fat," says Largerman-Roth. "So called healthy diets have supported protein rich plans such as Atkins and South Beach and totally shunned potatoes, bread and pasta."

And yet...

Carbs are stars

The Carb Lovers Diet re-

"There has been such a carbs backlash but research shows that people who ate the most carbs weighed less."

LARGERMAN-ROTH

volves around eating foods rich in resistant starch, a type of carbohydrate that isn't digested in our small intestine, leaving us feeling fuller for longer.

Calorie consumption is naturally curbed as the starch acts as an indigestible, filling fiber. Eating around 15 grams of resistant starch a day also triggers a fat burning enzyme in the body, increasing your metabolism. It's a balanced diet where you learn to eat a healthy amount of good fats, protein and fiber.

"We want people to eat normally and get the right carbs back onto their plates for good," explains Kunes.

When people do eat carbs, they tend to eat the wrong kind. Refined carbohydrates, such as white bread and pasta, are super junky and immediately converted into glucose, leaving you feeling hungry again two hours later.

The carb calculator

Sticking to the plan could have you losing up to eight pounds in 30 days. This is no pasta party. In the initial 'detox' phase, calories are restricted to 1,200 (average weight loss is six pounds) and gradually increased to 1,600 a couple of weeks later. Men on the plan should add 500 calories on to each phase. Portion control is a big part of the plan's success, as is one's ability to get over their innate fear of carbs.

"There has been such a carbs backlash but important research shows that people who ate the most carbs (in countries such as Japan) weighed the less overall and vice versa," says Largerman-Roth.

On the Carb Lovers Diet people finally get to eat what they crave — stars include green bananas, oatmeal, sourdough bread and more — just minus the guilt.

Sugar

A spoonful of sugar a day could keep the doctor away. Research shows that sugar improves the effects of antibiotics and reduces the strength of chronic and recurrent infections. Glucose and fructose help make bugs vulnerable.

Obesity

You have more than the common cold to worry about as experts claim that obesity could be contagious. Hanging out with family or friends that are overweight could be distorting your perception of what being a 'normal' size really is. There could also be a tendency to eat more when dining out.

The cuddle chemical

A new pill containing the 'cuddle chemical' oxytocin could help prevent post-natal depression, currently affecting 20 per cent of mothers in the United Kingdom.

Increasing the level of this hormone, known for enhancing feelings of love, trust and affection, could help mothers bond with their babies sooner.

Lots of Losers but few wins

► As North American waistlines grow, so does popularity of weight loss reality shows ► But who is benefitting?

Despite all the Biggest Loser-type shows on TV, all the pounds shed by their contestants and all the weight-loss products purchased by viewers, America continues to be the Biggest Gainer.

At least 10 weight-loss shows are airing these days, and on The Biggest Loser alone, this season's three top finalists dropped a combined 365 pounds. Yet the rest of us are just getting chubbier, with obesity rates in the United States now the highest of any industrialized nation. In fact, more people are obese today than when Loser premiered in 2004. So why aren't these reality shows helping in the fat fight?

actually are.

"The first step to changing some systemic problem in society is awareness and I think (weight) awareness is at an all-time high," says the 43-year-old producer, who is also behind Biggest Loser.

► While weight loss shows are at an all-time high, they aren't helping to prevent obesity, a new study shows.

"You will see nothing in national figures for probably eight to 10 years after a dramatic incident occurs," he says.

"The U.S. Surgeon General went out and told people to quit smoking, I believe it was '67. A hoard of people quit smoking, and the incidence of heart disease went down 15 or 20 years later. It takes that long."

Miso adds special flavour to meatless burgers

Made from ground chickpeas, these patties are traditionally fried but can also be cooked in a skillet or baked. And because chickpeas are agreeable to a broad range of flavours, it's easy to play with the seasonings and other ingredients.

Preparation:

- 1 In a bowl, whisk 30 ml (2 tbsp) of the miso and mayonnaise. Set aside.
- 2 In a food processor, combine chickpeas, remaining miso, cilantro, olive oil, garlic powder, five-spice powder, salt, pepper and lemon zest. Pulse until coarsely chopped.
- 3 Form mix into 8 patties about 7.5 cm (3 inches) around and about 4 cm (1 1/2 inches) thick. As you are forming patties, firmly pack with fingers.

- 4 Place breadcrumbs in shallow bowl. One at a time, set each patty in bowl; pat breadcrumbs onto all sides.
- 5 In large skillet over medium-high, heat 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the sesame oil. Add patties and cook until browned and heated through, 3 to 4 minutes per side. If patties start to stick, add another 15 ml (1 tbsp) of oil when flipping.
- 6 Serve burgers on buns topped with miso-mayonnaise, lettuce and tomato.

The halibut ($9.99) was the priciest by a couple of dollars over cod and had-dock, so I went with that.

The service was slow but the rugby-fan-pub atmosphere was entertaining. I sipped at my cold, thick Kilkenny ($7.99) and chatted with my family.

I swapped crisp fries for a daughter's sub-par clam chowder, but any disappointment was eclipsed by that breaded halibut.

Light, crisp batter formed a delicate outside shell and moist breading around the firm, white fish. It had plenty of flavour, and the deep fry was exactly what was needed to deliver it.

Sir Winston's dessert was described to me once in hushed awe. Happily, the deep-fried Mars bar ($6.99) was as tooth-numbingly sweet, hot and succulent as described, though with an odd crust.

I will definitely be back with friends for a two piece ... and another Mars bar.

OUTSOURCE THE CLEANING AND BUY YOURSELF FREE TIME

My husband and I both work so our weekends are crazy busy. I'd like to hire a cleaning service to free up some time, but he thinks we'd be throwing away our cash. How can I convince him it would be money well-spent?

Derek says...

Time is money, and hiring a cleaning service is like buying yourself some spare time. If he doesn't help out already, put a dust cloth and toilet bowl brush in his hands and ask him to start scrubbing. After one Saturday afternoon, I'm sure he will find cash from his beer budget to help stuff the cleaning-bill jar.

Angela says ...

Take a look at all your expenses, and then price out what it would cost to have your home cleaned bi-weekly.

It might be easier to afford than you both realize — maybe it just means one less dinner out. Try it out a couple of times and he'll likely warm up to the feeling of coming home to a clean house after work (especially the lovely fresh bedsheets!).

Their story:

OK for him to move on with his life; he didn't have to wait for me. Instead, he decided to join me for six weeks around Christmas.

It was very sad when it came time for me to leave, but I knew I would see him in less than four months.

When he joined me over the holidays, we were both amazed at how well we travelled together. Backpacking in Asia can be very challenging, and he did extremely well considering he had never travelled overseas before.

When it came time for him to leave, we were both in tears again, but we knew we'd see each other in six weeks. The trip had gone so well, we knew we'd be together for good. It was the longest month and a half of my life, and my enthusiasm for travel just wasn't the same without him. When I returned home in late February 2003, we went back to living together. David proposed a few months later, and we were married in September that year. We now have a very bright four-year-old, Charlotte, who keeps us laughing and on our toes.

Bring back old school approach to spending

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

Last week I was the MC of the joint FCAC-OECD Partnering to turn Financial Literacy into Action conference held in Toronto. Attending were over 400 delegates from all over the world.

As part of my introductory remarks I told the story of growing up in the 1950s in Canada the daughter of an air force officer and a stay-at-home housewife.

My dear old dad was the absolute monarch of our family finances.

He got his pay on the last Friday of every month and immediately deposited it in the bank.

He kept some cash for himself and placed some more in a plain white envelope, which he sealed and bestowed upon my mother as she mixed their Friday night Manhattans.

Mum guarded her housekeeping money zealously.

I never knew how much he gave her, and that envelope was a source of endless mystery to me.

In those days, a woman was considered a poor housekeeper and wife if she couldn't make the money last until the end of the month.

If she was particularly careful, there would be some left over, and she could use that for herself.

My mother was quite brilliant at squirrelling away nickels and dimes for an extra visit to the hairdresser.

Looking back, I told the delegates, I think that if all the world's financial affairs had been turned over to women of the "housekeeping money" generation, there would have been no sovereign defaults, no asset-backed commercial paper debacle, no subprime mortgage meltdown.

And most certainly no budget overruns!

I have this image of a woman, like my late mother, passing out envelopes to government ministers, banks and other corporations and issuing a stern warning.

"When it's gone, it's gone. Don't bother coming back for more!"

Throughout the conference my mother's envelope took on a life of its own.

Numerous delegates came to tell me that it had been raised in their workshop and a number of presenters wove it into their speech.

I think the message is that something as tangible as cash in an envelope, designated for a certain purpose provides the kind of spending limit no debit or credit card can do.

Maybe it is time to turn back the clock.

The return of the King

► Back in the NBA finals for first time since suffering sweep in 2007, LeBron is 'honoured' to be there

LeBron James walked through the tunnel leading from the Miami Heat locker-room yesterday, stepped onto the court and gave a yell. He looked down at the NBA finals logo newly affixed on the floor, then smiled and nodded.

With that, it became real. His championship chance — the biggest reason he came to Miami — has finally arrived.

Swept out of his only other finals appearance four years ago, James will get his long-awaited second opportunity starting tonight when the Heat host the Dallas Mavericks in Game 1 of the NBA's title series.

After a year like no other in his life, starting with the much-criticized "Decision," his jerseys being torched in Cleveland and never-ending, intense scrutiny of his every move, the last challenge will likely prove to be the toughest of them all.

"I'm honoured to be here once again," said James, who led the Cavaliers to the 2007 finals and lost in four games to San Antonio. "Now with this franchise, it's an honour."

"As players, we worked hard. I worked hard individually to get to this point. And I had a lot of visions of being in this moment and now it's hit me, being on that floor, seeing the championship logos and everything, the finals logos. I'm very excited."

It showed yesterday.

He chatted with teammates, taking part in a long-shooting contest with Dwyane Wade, Eddie House and others, looking perfectly comfortable as dozens of photographers clicked away for 30 straight minutes. By now, being in the microscope is an accepted part of the deal for James, who has been dealing with this since his high school days.

Away from the court, though, those who are around the two-time NBA MVP say his focus is even sharper than usual. Winning a title likely won't change perceptions about James. His fans will surely remain fans, his critics will surely remain critics, no matter what happens.

But to him, a championship would mean that everything that has taken place since he publicly said he would join the Heat was all worthwhile.

► Ryan Kesler of the Canucks battles with the Bruins' Tomas Kaberle in a regular-season game in Vancouver on Feb. 26.

Cup final has makings of a classic

► Bruins plan to be physical against well-rested Canucks

The date was Feb. 26, there were stars aplenty on both sides, and the Vancouver Canucks and Boston Bruins met on Hockey Night in Canada in what turned out to be a dandy.

Little did they know that the Bruins' 3-1 victory in Vancouver would turn out to be a preview of the Stanley Cup final.

But to the Bruins, it was just one regular-season game out of 82. Sure, it was a big win. Tim Thomas made 26 saves and Vancouver native Milan Lucic scored the game winner. It was a feel-good night, for sure.

The Bruins practised one last time in Boston yesterday before heading to Vancouver and were complimentary of their opponent.

"Obviously, they're a President's Trophy winner, they're a great hockey team, deep and well coached, and we'll look at things we have to do," Bruins forward Mark Recchi said. "Any key to your team's success is how you play personally. I think we focus on what we do ourselves ... It's who's going to want it more and who's going to play to their abilities the best."

By the time the puck drops in Game 1 tomorrow night, the Canucks, will have had seven days off.

"That's a real challenge for us, to be aggressive but not be stupid about it. So, we have to be smart in our defensive play."

BOSTON'S DENNIS SEIDENBERG ON DEFENDING THE SEDIN TWINS

The Canucks have many weapons, most notably Daniel and Henrik Sedin, the twin forwards who, along with forward Ryan Kesler and goaltender Roberto Luongo, have led this Vancouver renaissance. Together, the Sedins have 37 points this post-season, and Daniel has eight goals.

Kesler could be the X-factor, though. Too much concentration on the Sedins, and the rugged centre will pounce. Kesler scored 41 goals in a breakout regular-season and has followed that up with seven goals and 11 assists in the playoffs.

"There is a lot of skill, there is a lot of speed," Boston coach Claude Julien said in reference to the Canucks. "So, they are a pretty potent team and obviously, they thrive on their power play. So, we are going to have to be a physical team. But we are also going to have to be a very disciplined team."

STANLEY CUP FINAL

Canucks study tape of alien B's

Every edge counts and the Vancouver Canucks are looking to video to provide one in the Stanley Cup final against the Boston Bruins.

The series opener is tomorrow night, but the teams hardly know each other in game situations because they play in different conferences.

They face each other maybe once a year, during the NHL's regular-season grind with little preparation time.

But the two clubs will know each other a little better through video before they step on the ice in Vancouver.

"That's what we're going to use the next couple of days for," goalie Roberto Luongo said after yesterday's practice.

"We're going to get as much video as we can on them, go through their players, making sure we know everything we need to know about them, their systems and their tendencies and make sure we're as ready as we can be and we don't get any surprises."

Even though he used to play in the Eastern Conference, Luongo said he's familiar with only two Bruin forwards — Nathan Horton and Patrice Bergeron.

"Most of them are going to be (familiar) through video and talking to (goalie coach) Rollie (Melanson) and guys who have played with their players," Luongo said.

Coach Alain Vigneault said watching video of the Bruins will be like looking at a brand new opponent.

"That one game in the season is probably not reflective of how both teams play on a regular basis," Vigneault said.

"I don't think you can put too much emphasis on the stats from that game."

One Canuck who won't need much video to become familiar with the Bruins is Maxim Lapierre, who has faced them many times as a member of the Montreal Canadiens.

His scouting report was succinct and to the point. "It's a team that's going to show up every shift on the ice," he said.

"It's going to be tough and it's going to be a war."

Reports say Thrashers' move to Winnipeg nearly done

The Winnipeg NHL watch continues with reports that the Atlanta Thrashers' sale could be complete this week, possibly as early as today.

The Thrashers' owners are in negotiations with True North Sports and Entertainment, which wants to move the team to Winnipeg.

While reports suggested the news might come sooner rather than later, those in the know chose their words carefully yesterday afternoon.

True North spokesman Scott Brown told The Canadian Press via email that "no press conference has been scheduled as of yet."

And NHL deputy commissioner Bill Daly said in an email that "there is nothing done as of now."

The NHL would likely prefer the Thrashers' sale is announced on a Stanley Cup final off-day.

Still, Daly told The Associated Press yesterday there is no strict rule against releasing big news during the final.

Daly said, "It's certainly possible something will be finalized this week."

Yesterday was Memorial Day in the U.S.

The two sides have been working through complex legal details on the sale and relocation of the team. Thrashers fans' hopes for a late local buyer have not been realized.

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman said on his weekly radio show on Thursday the inability to find an owner who wants to keep the team in Atlanta is a barrier the league can't overcome.

"It would be one of those head scratchers where you say, 'Look at all of this great corporate opportunity, look at all of this grassroots hockey, why doesn't somebody want to own a team here?'" Bettman said. "And that would be a difficult but unfortunate situation to be dealing with if it has reached, or does reach that point."
